What can the Research Subject Advocates do for you?

- Provide information about research in general and about the particular study in which you may be participating.
- Serve as an objective witness in the informed consent process should you request it.
- Discuss and address your questions, concerns, or complaints regarding your rights and safety as a research participant.
- Maintain your confidentiality as a research participant.

Every question is important. Please do not hesitate to ask.

Subjects are encouraged to be honest without fear of reprisal by their doctors, investigators, or the New York-Presbyterian Hospital/Weill Cornell Medical Center.

Contact Information
212-746-4781
gcrcrsa@med.cornell.edu

This contact information is not for emergencies or medical consultations. For a medical emergency please contact your physician.

Please be aware that email is not a secure medium for sending confidential communications.